

LET THERE BE . . .—the towering lights which erupted over campus last week have nothing to do with the Space Effort, but they do present something of a futuristic look. The lights, five of which have been erected on campus, were donated last year to the University by the Wide-Lite Corporation of Houston. Each contains four 1000-watt mercury vapor lamps, and are a new design in outdoor lighting.